

BROTHERS ON THE PHONE

“A hybrid sketch variety show that starts and ends with two “Brothers” on the phone talking shit!”

Created by Corwin L. Moore

Brothers on the Phone Synopsis

Emmy nominated writer/comedian Corwin Moore brings you Brothers on The Phone. If Saturday Night Live and Nick Cannon's Wildin' Out had a baby, it would not be this show, and a really ugly baby. Brothers on The Phone is a fast paced hybrid sketch comedy show with only one major theme, the whole show is centered around the funny, crazy, and real things we all share on the phone.

Everyday on this planet, billions of people are on their phones, and those conversations are inspiring, informative, and just downright silly. So, let's see those bizarre and funny conversations on the phone. Every show will start and end the same way, on the phone. But during the back and forth, we can cut away to the "silliness" of the conversation. So if someone on the phone says, "A homemade sex-tape ruined my relationship!" Then we cut to that ruined sex-tape.

This show is definitely for the sketch variety show crowd. Anyone that can get into Saturday Night Live, Wildin' Out, Broad City, can definitely enjoy this show. This show is a perfect fit for the web or 30-minute episodic television format. The hook is simple here, everyone is on the phone, so let's see it.

Brothers on The Phone

- “Porno” - Corwin and his new girlfriend explore their sexual bucket list.
- “Black College” - Corwin vents to Jay about his hectic job at a Historical Black College.
- “Niggerdom” - Jay explains to Corwin about why he can’t “do” reality television anymore.
- “Steroids” - Rocco and Corwin discuss the pros and cons of steroids in professional sports.
- “Gym Court” - After being physically violated, Corwin goes to Gym Court.
- “Wrong Number” - Corwin calls the wrong number and falls in love.

Commercial Breaks

- Big Momma Meal Maker
- Thot-alis
- The Cloggiar

Corwin L. Moore

Corwin L. Moore, an Emmy nominated comedy writer was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. Corwin, being the youngest of five, quickly realized comedy was his passion and his best way to get attention. Corwin started in the industry as a child actor. He started performing in high school and within a year had a manager, agent and a significant part in the hip hop classic "Juice". His continued work as an actor has included various movies and many television shows.

Comedy has always been Corwin's first love. Corwin pursued stand up comedy with great success, joining the Uptown Comedy Club in Harlem, New York after a very short time. He has performed all over the world. The constant evolution persisted with Corwin being added to Saturday Night Live as a writer. His first season ended with an Emmy nomination for the writing staff.

Always moving forward but never forgetting to give back; Corwin has taken time to teach creative writing and poetry at Bethune Cookman University in Florida.

Corwin L. Moore

WRITING

Spike's Guys Choice Awards
Just Jordan
Oxygen Network
Tracy Morgan Comedy Album
Tracy Morgan Pilot
Saturday Night Live
Osborne's Christmas Special
Uptown Comedy Club

Spike TV
Nickelodeon
Oxygen Media
V2 records
Broadway Video/NBC
Broadway Video/NBC
MTV production
Bob Banner/NBC

Writer
Stand-up Writer
Segment Writer
Writer/Producer
Writer/Consultant
Staff Writer
Writer/Consultant
Writer

STAND-UP

Carolines
Catch A Rising Star
Comic Strip
Boston Comedy Club
Uptown Comedy Club
Stand Up New York
Laugh Factory
Improv: On Melrose
Comedy Store

New York City
Los Angeles
Los Angeles
Los Angeles

Corwin L. Moore

Contact:

Corwin L. Moore

Email:

brothersonthephone@gmail.com

Phone:

646-508-3444